Anne Decker's work is notable for its high level of craftsmanship and its timeless detail. Clockwise from top: A Chevy Chase renovation remains true to the home's original style; a seamless addition enhances a Bethesda residence; a window seat provides a comfortable focal point in a Chevy Chase hall; the entry to a Potomac retreat boasts custom doors and masonry; and a rhythmic paneled wall creates a backdrop for the homeowner's art.

Anne Decker Architects, LLC

Nationally recognized Anne Decker Architects specializes in the design of well-crafted homes and additions that enhance their surroundings. With more than 20 years of experience designing timeless residences, principal Anne Decker and her team work in close collaboration with each client to realize their vision of home. Sensitivity to scale, simplicity of form and attention to detail characterize the firm's extensive body of work.

"We approach the design of each project with a focus on being good listeners, a rigorous attention to detail and a keen appreciation of the site," Decker says. "Our goal is to create places that are beautiful, comfortable and of exceptional quality."

Anne Decker's projects have appeared in a number of publications, including Architectural Digest, Period Homes and New Old House. She received a 2009 Palladio Award and has also been honored with an AIA-DC Washingtonian Award and a Residential Architect Design Award. "The quality of our work is due to a very talented team of architects and support staff," Decker says. "Their experience, dedication and understanding of the building process contribute to the beauty and excellence of each project."
